ARCHDIOCESE OF INDIANAPOLIS

Records Retention Policy Archdiocese of Indianapolis

INTRODUCTION

The archdiocesan record retention policy was created in 1996 and continues to be updated periodically. The policy governs which documents created by archdiocesan entities need to be preserved, and for what length of time. Records should be reviewed for administrative, legal, fiscal, and historical ramifications on a yearly basis and a timeframe determined as to the length that the document will be kept.

Each year, every file should be reviewed to determine if it is still an active file and needs to be kept in your office; or if the file can be moved to the archives. Some records will need to be kept permanently, while others should be stored for a specific number of years but do not need to be kept in an active file.

The following guidelines are meant to help you determine the length that some records should be kept. At the end of the retention period, the file should be reviewed for disposition. This could include but is not limited to, destruction, permanent retention, and further retention. This schedule is offered as a guide to each office and can be used for most administrative records. Those offices working with specific Church records will need to determine their schedules based upon those guidelines. Please contact the archivist for assistance in completing these schedules.

AUTHORITY

Code of Canon Law, 1983; Canon 486

- 1. All diocesan and parochial documents must be protected with the greatest of care.
- 2. In every curia, there is to be established in a safe place a diocesan archive or store-room in which the instruments and writings which refer to both the spiritual and temporal affairs of the diocese, properly arranged and diligently secured, are to be safeguarded.
- 3. There is to be an inventory or catalog of the documents contained in the archive, with a brief synopsis of the contents of each one. (See also Canons 487, 488, 489, 490 & 491)

FILING GUIDELINES

Many filing options are available, depending on the type of documents to be kept. The best filing system is the one that you can access easily and find documents easily. Some offices prefer the alphabetical system, others file by subject, and still others use a date system. Whatever system you determine to be the best for your office, remember to be consistent in your filing. If you need information or ideas, please contact the archivist for assistance. Many guides are available to help you determine the best method for your office.

STORAGE

When records and files no longer need to be kept in a current file in your agency or office, they can be placed into storage in the archdiocesan archives. At the time they are placed into storage, the records will need to be clearly identified and marked with a destruction date and/or a date for archival review. When placing these records in storage or in the archives, it is best to use the smaller, bankers-type, storage boxes (SPARCO, SPR01651). Please contact the archivist for assistance (ext. 1538) when preparing items for storage. Identification of the records stored should be placed on the outside of the storage box, along with a review date. The archivist will manage the destruction of out of date records or contact your department if you have requested review of the records.

ELECTRONIC RECORDS

Some records can be stored electronically versus a paper format. The retention guidelines should be followed for whatever format is used for storage of the data. Records with a destruction date may be kept exclusively in electronic format; however, records that must be kept permanently must still be retained in paper format, in addition to any electronic copies that may be maintained for ease of access.

ARCHIVE REVIEW

Archive review will involve reviewing records for possible permanent storage in the archives. The archivist will assist in this review with office staff.

CONFIDENTIAL RECORDS

The retention guidelines for records do not determine their accessibility. Some records must be held confidentially with limited access. Arrangements will be made to ensure restricted access of confidential records if they are placed in the archives. Please contact the archivist if this requirement is necessary.

Please feel free to contact the archivist at archives@archindy.org for further information and direction.
